FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Child Millionaire in Oklahoma

(Sapulpa, Okla.) -- Jacob Coltrane was selected to be SpiritBank's Millionaire for a Day in Sapulpa this year. He was chosen out of 5 finalist that came from 5 different schools in the Sapulpa area.

All five students were picked up from school in a limo with a friend of their choice. They were taken to McDonald's for breakfast, then met at the bank with confetti and a red carpet. Out of the five children, Jacob was randomly selected as the one to receive the Million Dollars in his account for the day - the official Millionaire for the Day. Jacob did not get to keep the million, but did get to keep all the money it generates in interest for that day.

Jacob, then proceeded to Wal-mart to go on a shopping spree and then spent the rest of the school day at Incredible Pizza in Tulsa with the president of SpiritBank.

The four other finalists and their friends enjoyed bowling at Sahoma Lanes, pizza party, game play and ice cream at Braums to complete their day of fun.

The Save for America program is a money management lesson intended to show students how saving money is important. When a child is set up for the program, SpiritBank gives the student their first $1 in their savings account. The school then designates a "banking day" once a week before school that the children can deposit money.

"Children can bank for as low as a dime, and as an extra incentive, we give them each a little prize every time they bank," said Debbie Moss, Vice President and Save for America Coordinator for SpiritBank in Sapulpa.

SpiritBank congratulates this year's winners Jacob Coltrane, Megan King, Haley Smith, Trent Hixon and Saskia Dodson and all of the Save for America children who are saving for their future.

SpiritBank, a community bank based in Bristow, Okla., has branches statewide. The bank, founded in 1916, has assets exceeding $1 billion and more than 350 employees. The bank's commitment to customer success is reflected in its advertising, which features actual bank customers.
